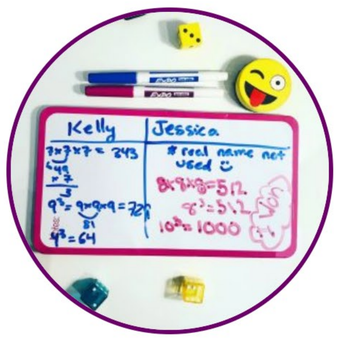
Do You Have Questions about the ISEE/SSAT?



Maybe you're an expat family planning a move back to the United States. Or perhaps you're an international family applying to the American School in London. If transitioning to an independent school is the next step for your child, the ISEE or SSAT is a critical component of your process. As a lifelong educator, I have been specializing in preparation for these important admissions exams for nearly a decade. To share the words of a return client: "She was far more than a tutor; she was an advisor and contributor to the process. She is so experienced that she is able to draw on her networks and awareness of the market to provide a lot of added value."

"Kelly has been a tremendous resource. My daughter thoroughly enjoyed Kelly's rapport and style. The idea of a "tutoring" session sometimes is not very appealing to an adolescent, however, my daughter always ended her sessions feeling relieved and positive about her progress. My daughter's Math scores on both exams improved significantly and amazingly, she no longer abhors Math problems. Additionally, 8th grade Math seems like a breeze for her. It is rare to find someone as effective as Kelly still be able to maintain an engaging, pleasant demeanor—Kelly does this flawlessly."

"Kelly did a wonderful job preparing our twin 13 year old boys for the ISEE test here in London when we learned we were moving back to the USA after 10 years. The boys had attended English schools throughout our stay, so they were completely unfamiliar with US standardised tests. Kelly met them, assessed where they needed help, and developed a thoughtful action/lesson/homework plan for each boy (they are very different). Over a few short weeks their confidence levels and their ISEE practice scores improved markedly. In the end, they both did exceedingly well on their ISEEs and got into all the schools to which they applied! We think the world of Kelly and her team."

From the first moment of getting in touch with Kelly I felt like my daughter and I were in very safe, knowledgeable hands. We were completely unfamiliar with the testing process in the States and - moving to NYC from London - really dependent on her not only to prepare my daughter but to guide us through the process. She is flexible, really well organised, and extremely child-centred.
